

A Letter of Appreciation to our Clients from Ted Hodge...

In 1989, I founded CCI Research to serve in the area of survey research. Based on our extensive work within the education sector, we have become a recognized leader in educational research, particularly in the Ontario college system. Over time, our research expertise has expanded significantly to include public opinion polling and market research in health, business, and other industries.

It has been a privilege to build collaborative and mutually beneficial relationships with our clients. Our success could not have been possible without those who have continually demonstrated their trust in CCI Research. On behalf of everyone at CCI Research, I extend our thanks and appreciation for 20 years of growth and development.

Rest assured that each CCI Research client, regardless of organizational size, or the complexity of research issues, will continue to benefit from our uncompromising policy to deliver exceptional service and quality research, on- time and within budget.

Warm Regards,

Ted Hodge,
President
